

JUNIOR PROGRAM PHILOSOPHY

The future of golf, both as a game and as an industry, lie in the junior golfer of today. While the junior golfer is important to this future, more important is the overall personal growth and influence that a positive junior golf program can hold for a youngster. Golf is an endeavor that produces character, sportsmanship and pride. It can give a young person an identity, provide them with friendship and teach them a healthy competitive attitude. Therefore, the Inver Wood Junior Golf Program will never lose sight of the positive life skills and personal growth that the game of golf can give to each participating youngster.

JUNIOR PROGRAM GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

GOLF AS A SKILL – Learning the technique necessary to play the game at an enjoyable level is an important part of any junior program.

GOLF AS A SPORT – The overall goal is to teach the junior golfer that golf is a lifetime game that anyone can play and enjoy.

SELF DISCIPLINE & MOTIVATION – In order to improve and reach a certain level of proficiency, a youngster must learn the value of practice and dedication.

COMPETITION – Competition is a part of life and golf affords a youngster the chance to learn the lessons of competition from a positive and sensible perspective.
